

Project Awards 2022

Info Pack & Entry Form

Project Awards - Celebrating Welsh Civil Engineering

The George Gibby Award is presented to the best example of outstanding design and construction of a project costing more than £5 million. This award honours the highly respected ICE member George H Gibby (1923-2010), who originally proposed the idea of an awards scheme to celebrate civil engineering.

The Roy Edwards Award is presented to the best example of outstanding design and construction of a project costing less than £5 million. This award was named after Colonel Roy Edwards who was the longest serving member of the South Wales Association committee and first territorial member of the Institution's Council (1949-54).

The Bill Ward Sustainability Award is presented to the project which best demonstrates the principles of sustainability, i.e. social, economic and environmental benefits of the project during delivery and upon completion.

The Designed in Wales Award is presented to a project that has demonstrated outstanding design and construction and which has been designed in Wales and constructed elsewhere (either in the UK or overseas).

The Alun Griffiths Award for Community Engagement is presented to an individual or organisation who have demonstrated standards of excellence in engagement with the local community in the planning, design, project management and construction of any project, taking into consideration and placing emphasis on all aspects of social, economic and ecological matters to ensure future sustainability and wellbeing

The Chair's Special Award is presented to any individual or project which has demonstrated exceptional skill and expertise or made an exceptional contribution to the profession. At its absolute discretion, the Judging Panel may make a recommendation to the ICE Wales Cymru Chair that a shortlisted project be presented with this award. The ICE Wales Cymru Chair may accept or reject any recommendation made to him/her at their own discretion

PUBLICITY

- ICE Wales Cymru and the Institution of Civil Engineers may use any of the information and/or images received for publicity purposes and to promote civil engineering in Wales.
- The shortlist of projects in each category will be announced to the media in Wales prior to the awards ceremony, based on information and images provided in entry submissions.
- Award winners will be announced to the media in a full press release after the awards event. ICE is proud to celebrate the achievements of the profession and award winning teams will be entitled to use the ICE Award Winner logo to publicise their success (artwork and guidelines will be provided after the event).

JUDGING

- A panel of at least three independent judges will determine a shortlist of all entries for each category based on the entry submissions.
- The judges may arrange a visit to the project or request further information. Site visits to the construction site are not planned for schemes submitted for the Designed in Wales Award, although a visit to the design team may take place.
- Any conflicts of interest of any judge will be declared and an alternative judge may be appointed to the Panel if necessary. Guest judges with a particular specialism may be invited to judge certain categories.
- Judges are not obliged to make an award in each and every category. In addition to the prescribed awards, the Judging Panel may also recommend to the ICE Wales Cymru Chair that the Chair's Special Award be presented to a given project.

BILL WARD SUSTAINABILITY AWARD

This may be awarded, at the Judging Panel's discretion, to a project entry for the George Gibby and Roy Edwards Awards which significantly demonstrates sustainability in its design, planning and construction.

DESIGNED IN WALES AWARD

The criteria for this award are the same as for the George Gibby and Roy Edwards Awards, with the following revisions.

The judging will focus on the design aspects, although construction should be substantially complete by 31 December 2021.

Site visits to the construction site are not planned, although a visit to the design team may take place. The focus of the submission in relation to the construction aspects should therefore focus on how the design team played their part in ensuring the design philosophy and details were conveyed into the finished project.

CHAIR'S SPECIAL AWARD

This award may be presented to any individual or project team which has demonstrated particular skill or made an extraordinary contribution to the civil engineering profession. The Judging Panel at its absolute discretion may recommend a particular project to ICE Wales Cymru's Chair, and any such recommendation may or may not be accepted by ICE Wales Cymru's Chair at his/her absolute discretion.

ALUN GRIFFITHS AWARD FOR COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

This award may be presented to any individual or organisation who have demonstrated standards of excellence in engagement with the local community in the planning, design, project management and construction of any project, taking into consideration and placing emphasis on all aspects of social, economic and ecological matters to ensure future sustainability and wellbeing of the community and its environment
